BUSINESS / TECHNOLOGY METHODOLOGY

WebTech Management Business Methodology is Driven by two (2) activities. Business principles and Object-oriented programming that as become the software industry standard. WebTech Management as merged these two activities into a six (6) phases Business Driven Object-oriented development methodology.

If you are involved in the area of computer science and the Internet you should be aware of the fact that this methodology is so important to your success.

Of prime importance in software developed by object-oriented programming is the ability to reuse. You can adapt an object which was used in another context. This can speed up the development of the software considerably.

Object-oriented programming has a visual and interactive element which consists of two parts, first to define the windows, forms, Internet pages and links, reports etc. which have a role to play in the information system and second to place objects inside these windows.
